

POLICE WAR IN 'SLUGGER' CASE

Boston Detectives Withheld Important Evidence from the State Officers Till Gov. Crane Stepped In.

HELD HANDWRITING CLUE.

Other Suspects Are Discharged and Jeweller Who Bought Murdered Girl's Watches Fails to Identify Mason as Customer.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The three colored men arrested last night as suspects in the Clara Morton murder case were released by the police early this morning. The Boston police admit that they are to nearer the capture of the man who sold either the Morton or the McPhee watch than they were yesterday. The man who sold the Morton watch wrote his name on a slip of paper and handed it to Mr. Nemser. The name and address he wrote was "James Miller, No. 23 Greenwich street." This piece of paper is locked up in Police Captain Degan's desk. Being a sample of the man's handwriting it would furnish a clue to work on, but the Boston police evidently do not intend it shall be used as such, for they will allow no one to see it.

State Detectives William H. Proctor, Simon Letteny and George C. Neal today took Joseph Nemser, the jeweller, to the East Cambridge Jail, where Mason is confined. The evidence produced to see if the jeweller could identify Mason. He looked Mason over thoroughly in presence of the State detectives. The result of the visit of Nemser to the East Cambridge Jail, as could not be ascertained at the jail, as the detectives absolutely refused to say a word regarding the case.

Soon afterward the detectives took a carriage and returned with Nemser to Boston.

Gov. Murray Crane has stepped into the "Jack the Slugger" case. There has been some friction between the State and city police and the holding-up of the slip of paper containing the signature of the man who pawned the Morton watch Monday morning is but one evidence of the feeling.

The State police were anxious to get the handwriting specimen to compare with the handwriting of Mason, the man under arrest.

Chief Watts refused to give it to Chief Wade, and this morning Gov. Crane ordered the head of the Boston Detective Bureau to surrender the important clue to the State officers. This the Chief reluctantly did.

Failed to Identify Mason.
Joseph Nemser, the pawnbroker, is said to have failed to identify Alan G. Mason as the man who sold the McPhee and Morton watches to him. Seven men stood in line in the corridor, among them being the prisoner. Nemser looked the men over carefully and failed to pick out Mason. The State officers are picked out from Boston in a carriage accompanied by Nemser. They held a consultation with Sheriff Fairburn, Edward Mason and his brother's attorney, Mr. Ware, sat in the outside office during the time that his brother Alan was under scrutiny. They refused to say a word. One of the officers indicated to The Evening World correspondent by a shake of the head that the purpose of the visit had failed.

A curious coincidence to which the police attach great importance is that the watches of both the victims of the "Jack the Slugger" were disposed of at the same shop. But Miss McPhee's watch was taken there by a white man, while it was a negro who sold Clara Morton's.

Second Man Takes Money.
The second watch was brought to Nemser's place last Saturday night between 11 and 12 o'clock. At that time after business hours he refused to deal with the man, who returned on Monday morning and named the watch for $1. This negro, Nemser says, was about twenty years old. While the watch was being examined another negro of burly form waited outside the shop. When the trade had been made he came into the shop and took the money. The man who negotiated the loan gave the fictitious name of John Miller, of No. 23 Greenwich street.

The next most important development in the case is the discovery in Handy-side Lake, near the scene of the attack on Miss Morton, of a heavy file about 18 inches long. This is believed to have been the weapon with which the woman was beaten over the head.

Superintendent of the metropolitan park system, had the lake drained and found the file by taking the water out of the pond. There was no sign of blood to be detected on the file with the unaided eye, but it will be examined with a microscope. The implement is now in the hands of State Detective McKay.

Do Not Admit the Alibi.
The police, while somewhat less confident than they have been that young Mason is the "Jack the Slugger," do not yet agree with his relatives that his alibi is good. In fact, additional identifications tend, they assert, to destroy the alibi.

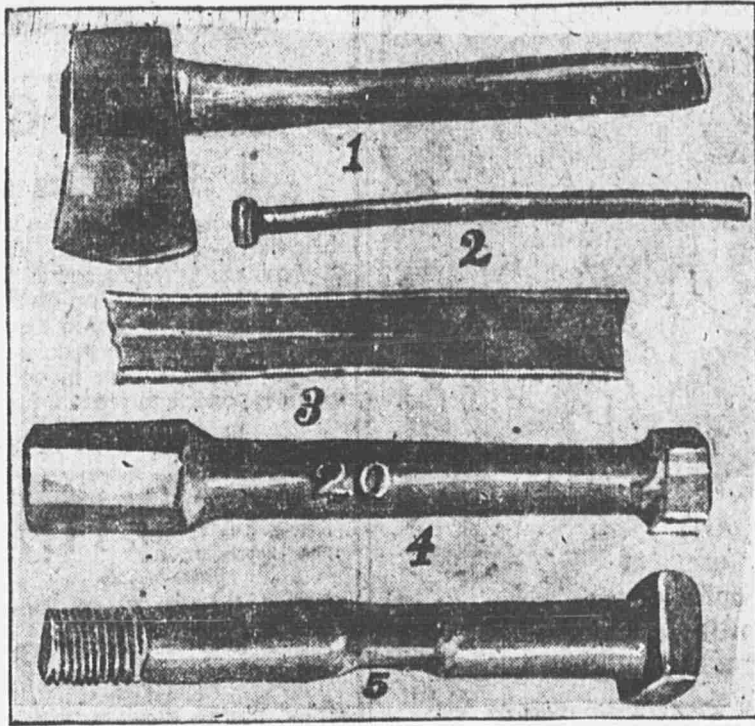

George Reynolds, a barber in Prospect avenue, says Mason was in his shop from 2 to 3 o'clock on Saturday. The proprietor of the Oak Grove Creamery says that Mason was there a little after 3 and did not leave till about 4 o'clock.

This testimony conflicts with the statements that Mason spent the entire afternoon at the factory. Other identifications are said to have played a favor with the story of Mason's relatives that he was in their company at the hour when Miss Morton was assaulted. The man who is still in Cambridge Jail, accused man is still in Cambridge Jail, and will probably be kept there till Tuesday, when his hearing will be had.

CAUGHT WITH SILVERWARE.
Reardon Arrested in Newark for Greenwich Street Burglary.

(Special to The Evening World.)
NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 7.—Daniel Reardon, of New York City, is under arrest at detective headquarters for a burglary committed at No. 593 Greenwich street on Wednesday night. Detective Sergeant Lewis arrested Reardon in Mulberry street as he was attempting to dispose of a quantity of silverware. At headquarters he was identified as one of the men wanted in New York. Reardon also had several silver watches in his possession and two bank-books made out in the name of Mary Brennan.

WEAPONS USED BY SLUGGER IN HIS ATTACKS ON WOMEN.

1. Pony axe used in assault on Katie O'Connell in Cambridge on June 17.
2. Iron bolt with which Sigra Gustavson was struck on July 17.
3. Angle iron used in assault on Ella Murphy on July 27.
4. Broken furnace wrench with which Agnes E. McPhee was struck Oct. 3.
5. Bolt found in Mason & Hamlin's factory yard at No. 126 Broadway, Cambridgeport, by a reporter, and reproduced because of its similarity to weapons used in some of the slugger assaults.

MILD WINTER DUE, PARK ANIMALS SAY.

In Mute Language They Give Director Smith a Forecast You Can Bet On.

If we can accept as a reliable forecast that subtle instinct that teaches the birds of the air and the beasts of the field to make timely preparations for the seasons we are going to have an exceedingly mild winter.

Director John W. Smith, of the Central Park Menagerie, who has made a close study of the habits of animals and this year the dumb weather prophets have announced in their tardy preparations for harsh weather that we are going to have an open winter. Woodchucks, he says, usually "hole up" for the winter in September, but this year they were still out and running about late last month. In regard to the squirrels' delay in laying in winter supplies, Mr. Smith said:

"Now the squirrels must make provision for winter. They must have a home for shelter and a stock of food to last until the snow leaves the ground. You would think that they would build their homes in the summer or occupy the same one year after year, but they do not. They build at the last moment, shortly before cold weather sets in. A year ago they started building their homes early in September. This year, however, they did not start to construct their homes until the latter part of October, and some of them have just completed their nests. I speak of the gray squirrels, whose habits are different from the small red squirrel. This delay was not due to laziness on the part of the little animals, but came through reasoning which is beyond understanding."

JUST WAR IN VERSE MIGHT BE WORSE.

Bird-Lovers Say You Must Not Slay the Songsters to Make Headgear Gay.

Circulars and counter-circulars are rushing through the mails in the interest of the strife between the Audubon and some bird protecting societies and the milliners as to the limitations upon the use of the feathers of certain birds in feminine headgear.

There is the following swing to the Audubon circulars:
You must not use the robin's tail
Nor the plumes of the whip-poor-will.
Nor the woodpecker's crest,
Nor the thrush's best,
Nor the down of birds that thrill.
The milliners' reply is as follows:
But the barnyard fowl,
The hooting owl,
And the big, humble crow,
And the gay peacock,
And any old flock
Of game birds have no show.

CASSIDY, OF QUEENS, AND LOW "MAKE UP"

Breach Between Mayor and Borough President Healed—Entente Cordiale Restored.

The Mayor and the redoubtable "Joe" Cassidy, President of Queens Borough, have smoked the pipe of peace. The breach which was occasioned when the Mayor sat down hard on President Cassidy's estimate for 1903 has been healed. This became evident to-day at the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

"Good morning, Mr. President," said the Mayor graciously and with a bland smile.
"Good morning, Mr. Mayor," returned the President of Queens blithely.
They sat at opposite sides of the big round table at which the Board confers and exchanged smiles and nods of recognition frequently.

This display of good fellowship between the Mayor and the Queens County leader had a good effect all around. "Comptroller Groat smiled and whispered a pleasant good morning, which went around the board easily and was returned with interest."

"We all seem to be in good humor this morning," said President Swannstrom, of Brooklyn.
"Post-election humor," suggested President Farnes, of the Board of Aldermen.

CZARINA HAS MELANCHOLIA.

DR. OTTO GRATHE STRANGELY MISSING

Left His Boarding Place in Brooklyn on Nov. 2, and Has Not Been Seen Since.

The disappearance of Dr. Otto Grathe from his boarding-house at No. 652 Kosciuszko street, Brooklyn, was reported to the police to-day. He left the house soon after luncheon on the afternoon of Nov. 2 and has not been seen since. A general alarm has been sent out.

Mrs. Gertrude Starkey, who owns the boarding-house, knew little of Dr. Grathe. She said he came to her house eleven weeks ago and told her he had been both an inmate and a resident physician at a hospital in Albany. He seemed to have little money, she said, and as far as she knows he had nothing in his possession when he disappeared but a morphine syringe.

Dr. Grathe is a large man, being more than six feet tall and weighing 250 pounds. He wore a Van Dyke beard. Boarders in the house said he appeared to be broken down mentally and physically.

NERVOUS DYSPESIA. A CURE FOR ALL.

Not a Patent Cure-All, Nor a Modern Miracle, but Simply a Rational Cure for Dyspepsia.

In these days of humbuggery and deception the manufacturers of patent medicines as a rule seem to think their medicines will not sell unless they claim that it will cure every disease under the sun. And they never think of leaving out dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They are sure to claim that their nostrum is absolutely certain to cure every dyspeptic and he need look no further.

In the face of these absurd claims it is refreshing to note that the proprietors of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have carefully refrained from making any undue claims or false representations regarding the merits of this most excellent remedy for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They make but one claim for it, and that is, that for indigestion and various stomach troubles Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a RADICAL CURE. They go no further than this, and any man or woman suffering from indigestion, chronic or nervous dyspepsia, who will give the remedy a trial will find that nothing is claimed for it that the facts will not fully sustain.

It is a modern discovery, composed of harmless vegetable ingredients, acceptable to the weakest or most delicate stomach. Its great success in curing stomach troubles is due to the fact that the medical properties are such that it will DIGEST WHATEVER WHOLESOME FOOD IS TAKEN INTO THE STOMACH, no matter whether the stomach is in good working order or not. It RESTS the overworked organ and replenishes the body, the blood, the nerves, creating a healthy appetite, gives refreshing sleep and the blessings which always accompany a good digestion and proper ASSIMILATION of food.

In using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets no dieting is required. Simply eat plenty of wholesome food and take these Tablets at each meal, three or four times a day, after the stomach, which rapidly regains its proper digestive power, when the Tablets will be no longer required.

Nervous Dyspepsia is simply a condition in which some portion or portions of the nervous system are not properly NOURISHED. Good digestion invigorates the nervous system and every organ in the body. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cts. per package.

What November Means at The Lambert Jewelry Store.

One month of the twelve measures the fullness of the year. If it be a year of prosperity November marks its height. If it be the reverse—but that is quite another story. At the LAMBERT STORE it marks the fullness, the completeness, of the stock—the ultimate fruition of the work of the LAMBERT FACTORY, which has spent the whole year in splendid preparation for this month and the one which follows. In the mean time the factory and the store have both been extended, though still occupying the old familiar home. The importation of diamonds direct insures our old and new friends a continued escape from the tribute paid to importers and jobbers before the ordinary retailer gets them. November has come to be a great month for holiday shopping at LAMBERT'S. People have learned that by making their holiday selections this month—even though they are laid away for a month—they may choose from better assortments. They avoid the hurry at the eleventh hour. Time for comparison and selection. Time for special orders—for telling an artist among the LAMBERT designers some special want which he may sketch for inspection. From the factory to the purchaser means much in price of jewelry—the saving of two profits. It means more in being able to secure EXACTLY what you want.

November's Brightest Story Is Told in These Wedding Rings.

With the best stocked jewelry store in New York to select from, known from one end of the city to the other for its variety of strictly high-class jewelry and watches, it may seem passing strange to select WEDDING RINGS as a sole topic. But the subject is specially pertinent. If you wed in bleak November, only joy will come, remember! It comes to very, very many. In the past twenty-six years, during which time the LAMBERT FACTORY has been in existence, this joy has come to several thousand unions, each cemented with a LAMBERT SEAMLESS WEDDING RING. It was the first LAMBERT product, and has been guaranteed for every year of the twenty-six. That it is seamless is but one of its virtues. Its gold is absolutely full weight and pure—assayed as carefully as a Government coin. The twenty-two karat ring is unusually delicate and pure. Being made in our factory, with no jobber and no middleman—not even a manufacturer—to deal with, the prices are like the prices of all LAMBERT wares, the very lowest possible for the highest grade the market affords. No charge for engraving.

Old Jewelry Carefully Refashioned or Remounted, and November Is the Best Month for It.
